Fifth-Year Update For the 2000-2005 Five-Year Consolidated Submission of the HUD Housing and Community Development Grant Programs

INTRODUCTION

Each year, the County of San Bernardino applies for and receives housing and community development grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), to develop viable communities by providing decent housing, suitable living environments and expanded economic opportunities, principally for low- and moderate-income persons. The grant funds received are from the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), Emergency Shelter Grant (ESG), and HOME Investment Partnership Act (HOME) programs. In 2002, the County qualified to receive these funds for fiscal years 2003-2004 through 2005-2006, as entitlement grants to implement eligible projects in unincorporated communities and thirteen (13) participating cities. These cities are Adelanto, Barstow, Big Bear Lake, Colton, Grand Terrace, Highland, Loma Linda, Montclair, Needles, Redlands, Twentynine Palms, Yucaipa, and the Town of Yucca Valley. The cities of Chino Hills, Rancho Cucamonga, and Rialto are members of the County Consortium for participation in the County's HOME program, but do not cooperate in the County's CDBG or ESG programs. The remaining cities in the County qualify independently and have chosen to receive grant funds directly from HUD.

Pursuant to regulations issued by HUD affecting the 1995-96 program year and continuing thereafter, the planning, application and reporting requirements of the CDBG, ESG and HOME programs are combined into a single consolidated submission. The purpose of the consolidation is to promote efficiency through a single planning and citizen participation effort, while better addressing the needs of low-income and very low-income persons with a range of federal funding options and federally funded housing and non-housing programs. According to HUD regulations, the County must prepare and submit a document called the Consolidated Plan. This document serves as the planning strategy and application for the three grants. The County's Consolidated Plan replaces the previously required Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategies (CHAS), HOME program description,

Community Development plan, CDBG Final Statement, and ESG application.

Part of the planning effort being carried out for the County's five-year consolidated application process, which encompasses the program years 2000 – 2001 through 2004 – 2005, is the preparation of an updated Needs Identification Report. This document is a fifth-year update to the Needs Identification Report. The Report serves, in part, to identify strategies, priority needs, and objectives under the County's Consolidated Plan for meeting housing, community development, and economic development goals. It also provides a basis for prioritizing project proposals for CDBG, ESG and HOME funding consideration. The reported housing and non-housing needs are the result of a collective effort with County departments, the cooperating cities, residents of the unincorporated communities, and in consultation with other public and private agencies that provide assisted housing, health services, and social services.

Needs identification under the consolidated application is an ongoing process that continues after the presentation of this report. Issues and needs identified after this writing can be incorporated into the document by reference. The process and results of the needs identification efforts are further described in the following sections.

The non-housing needs of the eleven (11) cities that do not cooperate in the County's CDBG or ESG programs are not addressed in this report. These non-cooperating, metropolitan cities are Chino, Chino Hills, Fontana, Hesperia, Ontario, Rancho Cucamonga, Rialto, San Bernardino, Upland, Victorville, and the Town of Apple Valley. These cities receive grant funding directly from HUD, and are responsible for preparing their own consolidated submission including the identification of needs. Except for the cities of Chino Hills, Rancho Cucamonga, and Rialto, the housing needs of these cities are addressed in their own consolidated plans. The housing needs identified by the cities of Chino Hills, Rancho Cucamonga, and Rialto are included herein.

CENSUS 2000 DATA AND TRENDS

Demographic Trends

Results of the 2000 Census indicate that the population, poverty and over crowded housing conditions in the County's CDBG Consortium have increased considerably since the 1990 Census. As an indicator of this trend, the County's population increased between the 1990 Census and the 2000 Census, by 291,054 people, representing a 20.5% increase. The number of people below the poverty level increased by 53% in the County's participating cities and by 45% in the unincorporated areas. Over crowded housing increased by 58.6% in the participating cities and by 48.4% in the unincorporated areas. These increases correspond with the population increase occurring primarily in the city areas of the County. HUD uses population, poverty and overcrowded housing in its formula for distributing grant funds to local jurisdictions nation wide. As a result of using 2000 Census data on poverty and overcrowded housing, the County's CDBG grant increased for FY 2003-04 by 10.9%. However, the County's 2004-05 CDBG grant is expected to decrease by 2% due to a decreased Congressional appropriation for the CDBG program nationally, coupled with an increased number of entitlement jurisdictions qualifying to share in the national CDBG program.

The level of poverty in the San Bernardino County Consortium continues to be greater than the state and national average. According to statistics from HUD, 11.2% of families in the Consortium communities live in poverty. The level of family poverty for the State of California is 10.6%. The national poverty level is 9.2%. The 1999 per capita income in the Consortium is $18,172. The Consortium's per capita income is less than the California average at $22,711 and the national average at $21,587. Further, HUD's 2004 estimate of the median family income in the combined area of San Bernardino and Riverside counties is $54,300. This is considerably less than $74,200 in neighboring Orange County.

Economic Trends

During 2003, California including San Bernardino County's economy slowed due to the national recession and changes in state energy and labor laws. In California, the impacts of higher than average utility rates causing the manufacturing industry to relocate to other states, coupled with new worker leave policies, overtime legislation, and workers compensation costs with poor benefits to those legitimately in need, have cost the state business and jobs. Major indicators for fiscal year 2003-2004 reflected continued erosion of the state's economy, resulting in a massive unmanageable deficit that will negatively impact its citizens for years to come.

Locally, San Bernardino County's economy was further impacted by massive fires followed by floods, destroying whole neighborhoods, which will take years and millions of dollars from private insurance and federal aid to rebuild. On top of these issues, is the continued impact of the bark beetle infestation. The bark beetle emergency is affecting the San Bernardino Mountains by destroying acres of forest, while imposing a continued critical fire threat beyond that experienced this past October.

The County's overall economy continues to reflect the national trend with the December 2003 unemployment rate at 5.0 percent. However, this rate does not reflect the impact of the region's recent fires and floods. Employment growth has slowed, being impacted by the slowdown in manufacturing and the strain imposed on those industries by the State's increased energy and workers compensation costs. Federal spending cuts and the State's fiscal crisis will further strain government and educational budgets, resulting in less funding for local government and educational services.

Economic recovery in San Bernardino County will depend on the State addressing worker leave policies, workers compensation law and other related employment legislation to reduce the flight of manufacturing and industrial companies from the state. Under the current national and state fiscal crisis, the local governments, such as the County of San Bernardino, continue to focus on business retention and growth using incentive tools. San Bernardino County, through its Department of Economic and Community Development, continues to utilize CDBG funded programs as one of its primary sources of business assistance, in collaboration with programs provided through other departments and agencies, to meet the needs of emerging and small business in participating communities throughout the County.

Housing Trends

Sales of new and existing homes in the County continue to rise due to the increased demand for housing in the region. This demand is directly related to the population growth in the area, the continued migration of families from the higher priced coastal counties of California and immigrants seeking better opportunities. Between 1990 and 2003 the median price of new homes increased by 58% in San Bernardino County from $168,600 to $290,468. Between the 1990 Census and 2000 Census the median value of owner occupied housing in the County increased by 2% from $129,200 to $131,500. Data for January 2004 shows that median prices for existing homes are at record levels in the Inland Empire. San Bernardino County's median price of existing homes is $219,047. This represents a 26% change from January 2002. West Valley cities (Chino-$275,000, Chino Hills-$365,000, Montclair-$215,000, Ontario-$223,921, Rancho Cucamonga-$302,644, Upland-$320,050) and some Central Valley cities (Grand Terrace-$208,500, Loma Linda-$236,000, Redlands-$234,671) have the highest prices during the second quarter of 2003. As an indicator of increased demand and reduced housing availability, vacant housing in the County dropped from 18.3% in 1990 to 12.1% in 2000. Still, this is higher than the State vacancy rate of 5.8%.

NEEDS IDENTIFICATION PROCESS

Program regulations encourage a broad base of citizen participation in the identification of housing, community development, and economic development needs. To accommodate this requirement, the County conducted public forums in the fourteen (14) cooperating cities, and in unincorporated communities. The following text describes the process used for conducting these forums.

In September of 1999, the County Department of Economic and Community Development (ECD) requested that each cooperating city conduct at least one community forum to obtain input from its citizens regarding the housing and community development needs of its very low- and low-income residents. Concurrent with this request, ECD staff conducted similar forums in seven (7) unincorporated communities within the County. To ensure consistency with HUD requirements, ECD staff developed standard language for all newspaper notices, fliers, and questionnaires, identified minimum posting locations, and attended the needs identification forums. Where necessary, the fliers and notices were printed in Spanish. In total, twenty-one (21) needs identification forums were conducted from October 13, 1999 through December 9, 1999, throughout the communities covered by the County's CDBG program. Overall attendance exceeded 330 citizens.

In addition, County ECD sent needs surveys to nearly thirty (30) County departments and divisions, another fifteen (15) to organizations providing homeless shelter or economic development opportunities within San Bernardino County, and one to each of the fourteen (14) co-operating cities. Another survey, which was created specifically for neighboring jurisdictions, was sent to the ten (10) metropolitan cities in the County of San Bernardino and to eight (8) adjacent County jurisdictions.

As of the date of this report, completed surveys have been received from the following County departments, agencies, cities, and neighboring jurisdictions:

For the 2004 – 2005 update to the Consolidated Plan, County ECD published in October 2003, and a request for new or expanded CDBG proposals. The project proposal application forms provided by the County asked for information about the community needs that would be addressed by the proposed projects. ECD included any new needs identified in the over 300 CDBG project proposals received as a part of this document.

RESULTS

This report presents a summary of housing and non-housing community development needs for the 2000-2005 five-year planning period, updated for fiscal year 2004-2005 as expressed by individuals, public and private jurisdictions, and social service providers. As stated in the previous section, the information was collected through numerous contact methods with residents and representatives of low-income persons. Citizens participated in the identification of needs by presenting information at sponsored public forums, by completing Needs Identification Questionnaires, and through contact with ECD staff. The report also includes issues supplied through questionnaires, which were completed by public and private agencies that provide special services to low-income persons, and by statements of need included in project proposal applications submitted to ECD for CDBG funding consideration.

The results of the needs identification effort are provided in the sections that follow. Needs are presented in HUD-defined housing, community development, and economic development categories for the communities participating in the County's housing and community development programs. Participating cities, in alphabetic order, are listed first. These are followed by the unincorporated regions and communities of Barstow/Baker Region, Bloomington, Crestline and Mountain Communities, West Fontana and Other West Valley Communities, Joshua Tree/Morongo Basin Area, Lucerne Valley, Muscoy and East Valley, and the unincorporated Southwest area of the North Desert, including the Communities of El Mirage, Oro Grande, Phelan, Pinon Hills, and Wrightwood. Finally, needs that were identified regionally are of importance both within cities and throughout the unincorporated areas. These needs are listed in the Multi-District/County Wide section.

To maintain objectivity, each need identified through the aforementioned processes has been listed only once per community regardless of the number of times the issue was expressed. The prioritization of needs will occur later in the consolidated planning process as described below. The sequence in which the various cities and unincorporated regions are addressed and the order in which the needs have been listed do not represent an indication of merit, ranking, or priority. Further, the identification of needs does not assure funding eligibility nor does it imply selection for funding.

This Needs Identification Report concludes the initial phase of the annual consolidated planning process for the HUD housing and community development grant programs. As indicated in the introduction, the needs identified in this report will provide a foundation for County of San Bernardino Consolidated Plans for the years 2000 – 2005. The needs information and related documentation, together with consultation with participating cities, public and private service agencies, citizens representatives, neighboring jurisdictions and other public agencies, will be used to develop the Strategic Plan portion of the Consolidated Plan. The Strategic Plan will indicate the general priorities for allocating funds geographically within the County and among the priority needs that will be identified in the priority needs table of the Consolidated Plan. The Needs Identification Report will provide a basis for assigning the priority given to each category of priority needs. In addition, the Strategic Plan will describe specific objectives for meeting under served needs and proposed accomplishments that the County hopes to achieve over the five (5) year period.

Each year, the Action Plan portion of the Consolidated Plan will be developed or updated from the quantifiable objectives set forth in the Strategic Plan. The Action Plan will describe the federal resources (ESG, HOME, and CDBG grant amounts) including program income expected to be available for that program year. It will recommend projects/activities with specific funding levels and resource (ESG, HOME, CDBG) allocations for addressing the priority needs and specific objectives identified in the Strategic Plan. The proposed 2000 – 2005 Consolidated Plan, complete with a Needs Assessment, Strategic Plan, and Action Plan for program year 2004 – 2005 will be presented to the Board of Supervisors for approval at a public hearing on March 30, 2004. The final plan is due to HUD in May. Program year 2004 – 2005 will begin on July 1, 2004.

This Needs Identification Report is a dynamic document. New needs identified during or after the presentation of the report to the County of San Bernardino Board of Supervisors on February 24, 2004 will be incorporated. Further, all comments are welcomed.
